

Conferencing Equipment

We recommend Polycom for all of your conferencing needs.

Polycom is the worldwide leader for voice and video conferencing, and has developed the world's only integrated, end-to-end video, voice, data, and web collaboration solutions.

"As businesses and organizations become more extended, the people working within them become more dispersed, less-connected and (potentially) less productive. Enabling individuals to communicate effectively across geographies, time-zones, devices, technology platforms and mediums represents a significant challenge. Polycom believes people are most productive when their inter-personal communication experience comes closest to replicating real human interaction. Polycom enables people to communicate and collaborate easily and intuitively through advanced voice, video and data conferencing solutions – with video clarity you can see, audio quality you can hear and ease-of-use you can feel. Polycom Solutions bring a more human experience to collaborative communication. Because when people work together seamlessly, great things happen."

